

Lecture 7 (synchronous)

This lecture helped me separate the life cycle of the project (temporary work) from the life cycle of the product (continues after delivery). I learned that effort and cost are not equal across phases—some stages require more work than others. The comparison made development approaches easier to understand.