

Lecture 6 (Asynchronous)

Waterfall was explained as a sequential approach where each phase must finish before the next begins. We reviewed the phases (requirements → design → implementation → testing → deployment/maintenance) and why changes are hard later. The visa/payment example helped me see how it works well when requirements are stable, but becomes risky if changed.